GIVES "TALKING POINTS" IN HOLY CROSS COLLEGE CAMPAIGN

The local campaign in the interests of the $1,000,000 fund for the Holy Cross College in Worcester, Mass., in Eastern Connecticut, and is reported to be meeting with much encouraging success.

The following "talking points" are some of those being used in the appeal for contributions and funds:

Holy Cross college has reached its limit. It is turning young men away. Its growth has stopped. "Not to grow is to fall behind." Loves of education are contributing generously to avert this danger.

"Classes" are being held in hallways because there are not enough classrooms. Three boys now occupy dormitory rooms intended for two, $150-$200 and $100 clubs are being formed to help the boys of Holy Cross.

Holy Cross is the poor boy's college. It furnishes tuition, board, and lodging at $400 a year—a cost that is duplicated by no other college of its importance. Broad minded citizens realize the need of help.

Holy Cross has never before made an appeal to the public for aid. The public realizes the needs and respond to the appeal.

Holy Cross develops not only the mind of the boy, but his body, soul, and spirit. It combines academic with physical and moral training. It makes men. This sort of American citizen that the nation needs.

Holy Cross fortifies its students against the political and social causes of present day, upholds the "old" and "patriotic." It produces patriotic Americans. Business men, capital and labor must unite to finance a bulwark against radicalism.

Colleges possess leaders for which the church, the state, and the world are crying. What appeal is more practical?

Holy Cross deserves a big endorsement. Holy Cross does not need money to run its busy business faculty. Its instruments are simple.

Holy Cross seeks friends for itself. It desires only to widen the scope of great interests. Norwich will go "over the top" in this campaign for Holy Cross.

Holy Cross deserves a new dormitory. A new administration building, new assembly and finance hall. A chapel. The addition of these buildings and facilities will enable the college to train normally 1,200 students as against 780 now.

Make your contribution. Send a check for the most convenient route to the local campaign chairman. Rev. W. H. Morris.

SAYS AMERICA MUST KEEP EUROPE'S CHILDREN ALIVE
